PLEASANT VALLEY RECREATION AND PARK DISTRICT WEBSITE ACCESSIBILITY REVIEW

Focus of Website Accessibility Review

An accessibility website review was conducted on April 22, 2022 by Disability Access Consultants, LLC (DAC) for the Pleasant Valley Recreation and Park District. The review was performed using the SortSite Website Accessibility Testing Software to evaluate a website's HTML content by testing against published website accessibility guidelines. The Pleasant Valley Recreation and Park District's home page, major web pages, links and sub-links were reviewed for accessibility for persons with disabilities. Links that direct users to external sites and web pages were not evaluated.

Background

As people have turned to the internet as a primary source of information regarding services, programs and activities, the Pleasant Valley Recreation and Park District's website assumes increased importance as a communications tool. Persons with disabilities also rely on the internet. Users who are blind or low vision, for example, employ screen access software that reads the code of a website and then renders it in whatever format is accessible to that person (speech, refreshable braille, etc.). Users with limited manual dexterity or motion use dictation software to give commands instead of mouse and keyboard control.

Accessibility Guidelines

There are three levels of website accessibility recognized by the World Wide Web Consortium (W3C). The standards are referred to as Web Content Accessibility Guidelines. Websites for Title II public entities such as the Pleasant Valley Recreation and Park District are required to comply with WCAG 2.0 Level AA.

Format of Website Accessibility Review

The review covers the evaluation of four thousand one hundred and four (4,104) individual web pages, links, sub-links and images. The format includes a summary and a detailed outline of issues.

1. Issue Report Summary – A summarized overview of detected issues throughout the website in categories, such as:
 - a. Accessibility – Issues regarding accessibility for persons with disabilities
 - b. Compatibility – Issues regarding browser-specific behavior
 - c. Usability – Issues regarding navigation problems for all users
2. Issue Details – An inventory of issues indicated by active links to specific web pages, images, and scripts

Issue Identification:

Identified issues are generated during the reporting process and are categorized into two (2) groups:

1. Priority 1 Issues – Issues identified with the highest degree of certainty and indicated with a red color coded icon.
2. Priority 2 Issues and under – Issues identified with a lower degree of certainty, which may require manual evaluation by a person.

Summary of Findings

The website for the Pleasant Valley Recreation and Park District was reviewed for compliance with WCAG 2.0 Level AA standards.

The most prevalent error found during the review was numerous instances of broken links. Broken links frequently occur when the page, document or file has been removed from the site, or possibly renamed, which prevents the link from taking the user to the correct target. A website user would receive an error message when clicking the link.

The accessibility evaluation also returned numerous findings for images that do not contain alternative text descriptions or where the alternative text is a placeholder or file name and not actually a description of the image. This would result in meaningless or confusing image descriptions when read aloud by a screen reader.

The accessibility evaluation also returned multiple findings for PDF documents available on the District website that are not accessible. PDF documents were found to be missing tags titles and language attributes which are needed in order to be read by screen reader software. Images on PDF documents were also found to be missing alternative text.

● Identify row and column headers in data tables using `th` elements, and mark layout tables with `role=presentation`.

Data tables allow screen reader users to understand column and row relationships. Layout tables read cells as a series of unrelated paragraphs with no tabular structure. Without `th` or `role`, screen readers apply heuristics to decide whether a table is a layout table or data table. These heuristics vary greatly between screen readers, and are affected by browser being used, window size, and font size (so the outcome is very unpredictable without `th` or `role`). If a data table has headers marked up using `td`, then change these to `th`. If a data table has no headers, add `th` elements describing each row and/or column. If the table is only used for layout add `role=presentation` to the table element. Impact on users:

- JAWS Reading: Treats tables without `th`
- and `role`
- as layout tables if the table contains cells above or below certain pixel sizes. This measurement is affected by browser window size, browser font size, and the browser used.
- NVDA Reading: Applies a layout table heuristic to tables without `th`
- and `role`
- which varies depending on the browser used and on the window size in some circumstances.
- VoiceOver Reading: Uses a sophisticated heuristic on tables without `th`
- and `role`
- , which is similar (but not identical) to the heuristic used by NVDA with Firefox.

 Radio buttons with very generic labels need to be enclosed in a fieldset with a legend explaining the label.

Legend text is announced along with the label text for radio buttons inside a fieldset, which makes it easier for a screen reader user to understand what the radio button does. For example:

<legend> Fries with your burger: </legend>           <label> Yes </label>           <label>
No </label>

 The CSS outline or border style on this element makes it difficult or impossible to see the dotted link focus outline.

Change the style to avoid obscuring the focus outline around focusable elements. Using a border or outline style that obscures the focus ring causes problems for keyboard-only users in:

- Chrome (obscures the focus indicator on links, buttons, dropdowns and range controls)
- Firefox (obscures the focus indicator on links)
- Internet Explorer (obscures the focus indicator on links, buttons and range controls)

<https://www.pvrpd.org/>

Internet Explorer does not support the `outline-offset:` property, so using this does not reliably avoid focus outline overlap.

Usability

This section shows general usability issues, indicating navigation problems for all users.

- Have a link labeled 'Home' on every page on the site, except for the home page. Many sites place the organization's logo on the top of every page and link it to the homepage. While many users expect logos are clickable, around 25% will not realize that links to the homepage. Therefore, include a link labeled 'Home' near the top of the page to help those users.

Guideline: Usability.gov 2:6

Omitting img width or height attributes makes the page layout jump about as images load.

This makes the page very hard to read or click while it's loading. Fix by adding width and height attributes to the img tag matching the image dimensions. In responsive layouts, specifying width and height prevents layout jumping because the browser can pre-calculate the final image size when CSS like this is used: `img { max-width: 100%; height: auto }`

 Use link text between 3 and 100 characters so it's long enough to be understood, but avoids line wrapping.

A single word text link may not give enough information about the link's destination. A link that is a full sentence is difficult to read quickly, particularly if it wraps to another line.

● This link is broken. The name of the target web server not found in DNS.
This often occurs when the destination site is no longer operating, or www. has been omitted from the front of the domain name. It can also be a transient issue if the local DNS cache server is temporarily unavailable.

● This link is broken. The page could not be found on the target web server.
Fixing this depends on how the link became broken:

- The link has been mistyped and should be fixed
- The destination page has moved and the link should be updated
- The destination page no longer exists and the link should be removed
- A file has been accidentally deleted and should be replaced

Some web browsers try to fix common mistakes, so broken links may work in some browsers but not others. For example, a PDF link address like "www.example.com" works in Adobe Reader, but not in the Google Chrome PDF Reader (the link should be "https://www.example.com").
